R-ACES Ecoregion Meetings

Join us for an inspirational online seminar series on how to initiate energy cooperation projects on industrial sites and business parks.

Industrial sites and business parks play a key role in the energy transition: They have the potential to become hubs of energy flows for the entire region around them. However, initiating energy cooperation projects is often easier said than done.

During our four thematic online seminars, experts share their stories on how they realized energy cooperation projects in their region. So, tune in and get inspired!

“The industry sector represents 25% of all energy demand in Europe – and 50% of the total cooling and heating demand on the continent; yet only 16% comes from renewables. Through energy cooperation R-ACES supports Ecoregions to reduce their emissions by at least 10%”
